

Title: Materials and Process Technician
Reports To: Senior Materials and Process Engineer
Application Deadline: 09/07/2011
Posting: Internal/External

Responsibilities:

Support the fabrication of test specimens in support of certification and material development. Coordinate lab schedule to support program test requirements. Assist in materials and process development for production. This position entails fast-paced schedule driven work.

- Schedule and coordinate test memo/plans completion to support flammability/mechanical testing requirements for programs, new material research and material specification creation and updates.
- Assist in the manufacture of test specimens for flammability/mechanical requirements.
- Assist lab technician in managing and testing of all flammability/mechanical samples.
- Operate production equipment such as a hydraulic press, Fostoria, etc.
- Additional duties assigned as required to support business requirements and material qualifications.
- Applies and embraces Lean principles to all activities.

Requirements:

- Preferred bachelor degree in engineering discipline or equivalent experience.
- Good record keeping skills are essential in this role in order to maintain traceability to all procedures within product development processes.
- Preferred experience in the production of aerospace composite materials and the ability to identify new techniques for improved performance.
- Good engineering drawing reading skills.
- Preferred proficiency with MS Word, Excel, PowerPoint and Access.
- Ability to learn basic functions of 3D drafting programs.
- Self motivated person willing to work in a team as well as independently.
- Willing to work overtime to meet deadlines.
- Attention to detail.

Equal Opportunity Employer